

THIS YEAR MAKE IT CAKES AND FLOWERS

The season of love is just around the corner, but don't wait to be showered with delicious treats and beautiful bouquets – make your own!

IN CELEBRATION OF Fairtrade Fortnight (28 Feb to 13 March), we're delighted to be teaming up with Tate & Lyle to offer 30 readers a truly indulgent day of cakes and flower arranging on Saturday 5 March.

First, you'll discover more about what Fairtrade really means, before a hands-on cupcake demonstration, courtesy of London's famous Primrose Bakery. Then you'll enjoy a relaxing lunch, where you can compare notes with other SHE readers.

In the afternoon you'll learn the art of flower arranging. Don't worry if you don't know a lily from a lemon blossom, as Kally Ellis, the founder of McQueens flower shops and floristry school, will be on hand to help you make an arrangement to take home.

You'll also leave with a goodie bag (including a candle) worth £65. So if you fancy learning new skills while tucking into cakes, book now!
